MR. PROCTOR'S SUCCESSOR

Speculation Concerning the Possible Change in the War Department.

Ex-Governor Cheney, of New Hampshire, Likely to Go Into the Cabinet if the Present Secretary of War Takes a Seat in the Senate.

WHO WILL SUCCEED PROCTOR?

Ex-Governor Cheney May Be the Next Secretary of War-Other Names Mentioned. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.-That Secretary Proctor will soon, by appointment of Gov. Page, be Senator Proctor, is, of course, no surprise. Everybody has known that he would succeed Senstor Edmunds, and, therefore, while it is very true that there is no one here at this moment from whom ac curate information could be obtained, still as it has been known for so long a time that the vacancy in the Cabinet would occur that the possible succession has long since been discussed, It is believed that Secretary Proctor will not retire from the Cabinet until he is made Senator, and that does not occur until November. There are many names mentioned, but only that of Gen. Russell A. Alger is immediately disposed of by a laugh of scorn. The late commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, General Veazey, has been spoken of, but he is understood to have given his friends only very scant encouragement to press his name. Senator Hawley is mentioned also as a possibility. The President, however, would probably be very reluctant to take any one from the Senate at this time. There is now a very slim majority of stalwart Republicans in that body. A change of one or two votes there might enable the silver men to pass a free-coinage bill over the President's veto. It is said that Hawley will probably not expect another term in the Senate, and he might be willing to resign to take a Cabinet position, but he cannot be spared from Congress at this time. Assistant Secretary Grant's name will be pressed by his friends. The selection regarded as most probable by those who have been particularly interested in the discussion since Mr. Procterested in the discussion since Mr. Proc-tor's retirement was first spoken of, is that of ex-Governor Cheney, of New Hamp-shire. Governor Cheney and President Harrison are warm friends. Mr. Harrison offered him this same position, it is said, before the Cabinet was formed. He did not then feel inclined to accept, but favored the selection of Mr. Proctor, whom the President had already about determined to give some place in the Cabinet. It is now thought that Governor Cheney would accept the appointment. He is, therefore, looked upon as the coming man.

PAUPER IMMIGRANTS.

Mr. Owen Takes Steps to Stay the Influx of Destitute Russian Hebrews. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.-Superintendent of Immigration Owen to-day replied to the letter of the Cutters' and Trimmers' Assembly, K. of L., of Baltimore, who, in a protest, called his attention to the sweeping reduction of wages paid to American workingmen in consequence of the wholesale entrance of Russian Jews. The protest of the clothing tailors has been reinforced by a complaint of the Painters' Assembly. In replying to these complaints Mr. Owen assured the workingmen that their interests would be guarded against any further increase of pauper immigration, and, as the best evidence of the government's interest in its own citizens, he directed their attention to the department's action in putting a decided check on what seriously threatened to become an abuse of the ly threatened to become an abuse of the bonding system, whereby surety in $10.000 was given that those Russians who landed here penniless would not become a burden.

It is this constantly increasing class that give American workingmen most dangerous competition. Landing here without a cent, they will work at prices that are impossible to Americans. So great has this class become that the agents of Baron Hirsch at Baltimore have acknowledged their inability to give further bond. A scheme was devised by the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of that city whereby its trustees offered to pledge the property of the asylum to give bond for a party of thirty pauper immigrants. Mr. Owen has refused to accept the bond, and has told the trustees that he will not permit them to pledge the home of helpless orphans, but that they must give bond on their own personal property. This they have refused to do, and the thirty paupers will be shipped back to Eu-

The present method of bonding pauper immigrants is a great drawback to the executhat as soon as Congress meets Mr. Chandmay offer an amendment to the present law, distinctly forbid-ing the giving of bond in any sum. It was purposely omitted by Mr. Owen when he framed the present law, but has been made possible by an opinion of the Department of Justice. It unfortunately permits the landing of the very persons whom the law in letter and in spirit expressly excludes. Mr. Owen went to Pittsburg to-night to look after some alleged contract-labor law violations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.-The committee consisting of Ed L. Mills, W. W. WORKRESUMEDBYSTRIKERS

Lake Erie & Western Freight Trains

Again in Motion All Along the Line.

Basis of Settlement Seems to Be Satisfactory to Both Employes and Officials-Changed Scene in the Yards at Lafavette.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 26 .- It is amazing what a change has been produced in the yards of the Lake Erie & Western road within twelve hours. Yesterday the yards were filled with men, little groups here and there, everybody wide awake and watchful, as if expecting something serious was about to take place. The long tracks in the yards were filled with loaded freight cars, awaiting an opportunity to be hauled out. To-day all is changed. There are no groups of idle men in the yards or around the shops; the tracks are empty, the cars having been hauled out; the switch engines are puffing up and down the tracks, and no sheriff's deputies are flitting in and out of the round-house, or warning people not to cross the "dead line"-that is, not to try to enter the building. Instead of anxiety being depicted on the faces of the railway men or local officials, smiles predominate; everything, in fact, denotes that the strike is off, and the wheels that had been idle since the 17th are going round as fast as steam can turn them. This strike was never excelled in some particulars. The men were not drinking, or, if occasionally one of them was discovered taking a drop too much, his friends hustled him to the rear and looked after him until he was sober. Only one or two collisions occurred between the men who came here to take the places of the strikers and the latter, and these could have been avoided. The basis of settlement is apparently satisfactory to both sides, and the general opinion is that the schedule that is to be submitted by the company by next Monday will be liberal in its offers, and that there will be no great difficulty in reaching a satisfactory conclusion.

While there is said to be some feeling on the part of the managers of the road at the fact that the local officers did not step into the breach and attempt to aid the company the breach and attempt to aid the company in getting out cars, whether or no, still the general belief is that had this been done there would have been bloodshed. The men were just as determined on the one side as was the railway company on the other, and had a lot of new or inexperienced men been sworn in as special police-men or deputy sheriffs they might have precipitated the very thing they were em-ployed to prevent. As it is, no lives were lost, and no serious injury done to persons or property.

The peaceful settlement of the trouble will also be hailed with delight by the engineers. Forsome reason, not apparent on the surface, there was a belief in the minds of a great many persons that whenever the supreme moment came that the freight trains were ready to go out, if it came at all, the engineers would bemand that the company give them some assurance that the men put on as brakemen and conductors were experienced in those callings, and that if this could not be done, then they would in-sist on experienced aids. Such reports were freely circulated among the strikers, but General Manager Bradbury said to your correspondent that there was not the faintest ground for any such reports. The engineers and firemen were loyal men, ready to go out on the road whenever the order was given to do so. During exciting times like those transpiring here for the last nine days, many of these reports get into circulation; how nobody knows. But fortunately it was all fixed up in time to prevent the test being made as to whether or not the engineers would have to take sides for or

BALL MEN AT LOGGERHEADS

Peace Conference of League and Association Magnates Proves a Fizzle.

Negotiations in the Interest of Harmony Broken Off Because "King Kel" Jumped His Contract-Result of Yesterday's Games.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.-The abrupt termination last night of the negotiations between the representatives of the rival basepall associations was to-day a fruitful topic of discussion in the hotel lobbies and at other places where sporting men congregate. It was hoped that much good would result from the coming together of the representatives of the two great base-ball associations, and but little idea was entertained that the conference would be of such short duration and so unsatisfactory in its results. The Association men are very much exasperated at the refusal of the League committee to compel Kelly to remain with the Association club in Boston, particularly as they were of the opinion that the League committee had full power to take definite action. It is all the more irritating, they say, as the request for the joint conference came from the League. They declare that all peace negotiations are off for the present at least, and they insist that they will not surrender their ground, but will fight the battle to the bitter end.

Louis Kramer, the chairman of the Association committee, to-day sent a letter to the representatives of the League, reciting the grievances of the Association, and clos-ing thus: "We feel that we cannot properly continue our negotiations until your people have shown a disposition to meet and treat fairly. Unless, therefore, you can guarantee to us the return of Kelly and good faith in our negotiations and dealings we shall be compelled to withdraw entirely from the conference." The following is the reply of the League's representatives: Gentlemen—We are in receipt of your commu-nication of this date. By mutual consent and in good faith, the National League appointed a committee of three to meet a like committee your committee, representing the American Association, submitted the following demands as a Ninth-That the right of the American Association to maintain clubs in said cities shall be perpetual; that is to say in case any club should resign its membership, disband or be expelled, the American Association shall have the right at any time to establish another club in such city. We were discussing these demands when your committee withdrew for conference. Upon your return you announced that since early in the evening you had been in possession of the information that a player claimed by an Association club had been signed by a National League club and that such information had just been confirmed. Mr. Phelips then stated that the been confirmed. Mr. Phelps then stated that the hour being late it would be well to adjourn, and upon motion we did adjourn to meet at 10 clock this morning. Bo far as we are informed nothing has occurred since the hour of adjournment to change the situation as existing at that time. At 10 o'clock this morning were at the place of meeting prepared to proceed with the business which brought us here. After waiting some time your communication was received, in which you make the following additional demand, viz: "Unless, therefore, you, the League committee, can guarantee us the return of the player mentioned, and good faith in our negotiations and dealings, we shall be compelled to withdraw entirely from the conference." We respectfully submit that this last demand occupies precisely the same status as any of the other demands above mentioned, and is a proper subject for discussion in joint conference.

We are here for the purpose of discussing and adjusting, if possible, any and all differences between the two organizations, and are prepared to proceed in compliance with our understanding at the time of adjournment last night. We therefore hold ourselves in readiness to meet you, and will remain here until 5 o'clock this afternoon, unless otherwise advised. C. H. BYRNE,

JAMES A. HART. Upon receipt of ithe League's letter, the Association sent a long answer, discussing the demands of each organization, and claiming that the League's committee had broken faith with them in their promise of peace, but would be willing to meet the League half way to effect a settlement of the difficulties. As the matter now stands. neither side will make the first advance and the prospects for a conference between them is exceedingly slim. The representatives in Washington of the American Base-ball Association held a of several hours' duration today. Mr. Phelps made a report of the meeting of the Association committee with that of the League last night, and it was accepted. Mr. Louis Kramer then tendered his resignation of the office of president of the Association to take effect on Sept. 1. The resignation was accepted. Mr. Phelps. of the Louisville club, was then nominated and elected to the office of president. Don't Want Kelly Back. Boston, Aug. 26 .- The directors of the Boston Base-ball Club of the American Association say nothing will be done about the jump of Kelly. To-day they sent a telegram to President Kramer asking that the Kelly matter be not considered at the conference at Washington. They do not need him, and would have no use for him even if he was returned. The club would not make the slightest move to get him back. There would be no proceedings against him or the clubs that enticed him away. Manager Bancroft, of the Milwaukees, said that Kelly came to him upon entering the grounds yesterday afternoon and told him what he had done, and that he had signed a contract for the remainder of this season and the beginning of next for $20,000-$13,500 down-besides a ticket for Europe for himself and wife. Mr. Bancroft said that President Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Browns, could have signed Kelly in St. Louis on the last trip of the Cincinnati Association nine. Kelly signified his willingness to sign with Von der Ahe. It was Von der Ahe's intention to play him in left field and behind the bat, and next year to place him at the head of the Chicago American Association nine. Kelly afterward changed his mind, and said he wanted to play in Boston where his home was. Von der Ahe interposed no objection, and asked him if he could go right away. He took the train that same night for Boston. That the Boston Association nine could not sell out is shown by the fact that President Kramer holds a deed of trust for 51 per cent. of the capital stock of the club. Even were this not so, the Associa-tion would keep a club in Boston on the new grounds, were the present club dis-

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The Plans and Purposes of President Coulter -The Aid of the Alumni Requested.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: In coming over the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad from Washington to Cincinnati, I chanced to meet with Dr. John M. Coulter, the new president of the Indiana State University, who was returning from the recent meeting of the A. A. A. S., at Washington, and of the biological section of which he was president. Our conversation naturally turned upon the State University and its prospects. Dr. Coulter, while not yet fuily settled in his new relations, has already imbibed an unusual degree of that enthusiasm which will grow as his continued connection with the institution more closely identifies its interests with his own and draws him into closer sympathy with that warmth of feeling with which we always regard our alma mater. His words, in giving a forecast of the institution's prospects, bore evidence of confidence, of hope, and a complete knowledge of what lay before him. Said he: "The outlook is exceedingly bright. Within, everything is harmonious, and without all conditions are most favorable. Everything seems to have combined to make the opening of the first year of our administration unexcelled by any in the history of the institution. All the reports conveyed to us from the various sections of the State would indicate a large increase of attendance over that of last year. Already eighteen have been added to the senior class alone. These will be drawn partly from other instituof those throughout the State who, by the pursuit of studies in a particular line, will be able to graduate after one year at the university. This class is made up largely of principals and superintendents of schools, who, while engaged in their pro-fession, have devoted several years to some line of study. No, they will not be allowed to graduate in any department they choose, but will be confined to that subject to which they have devoted at least three years. As you know, according to the courses as they now stand, the student, before graduating, must have specialized in some line for at least four years. The requirements in respect to the class of students which I have just mentioned are not lowered. I have applications from students who desire, for instance, to graduate in geology or chemistry, never having taken perhaps but a short term in that work. Under the policy of the institution it would be impossible for them to graduate in these departments, but if they have devoted three years in some other line, for instance, pedagogy, then they could graduate in one year in that department, provided, of course, their collateral work was up to the requirements. The main condition imposed upon this class of students is that they shall be able to carry the work after having entered.

"The internal policy of the institution, so ably planned by Dr. Jordan, will not be materially changed. The courses of study and the requirements of the same will, for the ensuing year, remain about the same. They will be altered only as the changing needs of the university may require. The only comparatively new idea which we attempt to develop is what is known as the university-extension system. This plan, developed in Europe, has but lately been introduced into this country, some of the Eastern colleges having taken the mitiative. It consists in establishing classes at various places, which have been organized for the purpose of study in some particular line, and which are connected with and responsible to the university. To these classes will be sent out, each week, instructors who will lecture and conduct the classes in the same manner as they do at the university. At the end of the year these classes will be given proportionate credit for the work which they have done. Classes have already been organized in various parts of Indiana, and a very large class has been arranged for in
